From the desk of the Garrison Commander

Commander covers issues from Town Hall meeting

I wanted to provide all of you a little feedback on our direction resulting from our last Town Hall meeting.

The entire blinds issue is being reviewed to ensure that all quarters requiring blinds are on the list and to expedite the work plan.

The funds to fix the Youth Center playground have been freed up and work should be completed there providing a new surface and new playground equipment within three weeks.

Sgt. Maj. David Bartlett is looking into Soper Field. This is being used by Youth Services as well as the city of Seaside for their youth baseball program.

The city of Seaside has agreed to put a future sidewalk on Monterey Road, from Coe Avenue to Fremont Street, on their Capital Improvements Program.

On the first of May we transitioned our Public Works on the Presidio of Monterey from the Navy to the city of Monterey. At this time there is no effect on the maintenance of Army housing, either on the POM or the Annex. The Navy workers will continue to maintain our quarters.

We are ready to proceed with the plan to put up community mailboxes for your continued mail protection.

Col. Peter Dausen, U.S. Army, Garrison Commander

This plan has been briefed at the last two Town Hall meetings.

If you have concerns about it please contact myself or Sgt. Maj. Bartlett as soon as possible. We will do our best to allay your concerns before we start work.

Thanks for listening.

General sends message on Memorial Day safety

By Gen. Dennis Reimer
Army Chief of Staff

The Memorial Day weekend signals the start of summer activities. Unfortunately, the hazards associated with traditional summer activities significantly increase the risks for serious injury and death. I am convinced that strong, caring leadership and the application of risk management will prevent the unnecessary waste of soldiers' lives in accidents. We need to maintain a strong safety campaign of education and intervention throughout the summer.

Outdoor off-duty activities such as camping, playing sports, swimming, and boating pose hazards that are often fatal to the unprepared. On-duty, our high operational tempo, coupled with the hazards of summer such as lightning, the sun, and heat exposure, heighten the risk of injury and death. Privately owned and army vehicle accidents continue to be the number one killer and the summertime four-day holidays are the deadliest of the year.

Current trends can help focus our efforts. In the first half of fiscal year 1999, POV accidents accounted for 59 of the 73 soldiers killed in ground accidents. That means that every three days a soldier is needlessly killed in a POV accident. It is well known that using seatbelts and wearing motorcycle helmets saves lives. However, soldiers did not use seatbelts or helmets in 21 percent of POV accidents.

Analysis shows that 75 percent of POV accidents occur in the continental United States and states with high troop concentration – Texas, Georgia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky and Kansas – continue to be most vulnerable. Military drivers are at fault in 56 percent of the accidents. Top causes are losing control, crossing the centerline, speeding, and fatigue. More soldiers die in POV accidents over the Memorial Day, Independence Day and Labor Day holidays than other holidays.

Ensure your soldiers are aware of the hazards of vehicle operation and summer activities before the Memorial Day holiday. Use the six-point model POV safety program developed by the director of Army safety as the minimum standard in every unit. Information about POV accident prevention and other accident prevention tools are available on the safety center web page at safety.army.mil. The elements of the model POV safety program—command emphasis, discipline, risk management, standards, commander's assessment and alternatives—form an excellent template for our summer safety program.

Accident prevention is both a leader and individual responsibility, but implementation must start with command leadership. I ask you to commit to making this Memorial Day weekend, and this summer season, free of injuries and needless tragedies. Leadership saves soldiers.

Soldiers are our credentials.

FEGLI continues open enrollment period until June 30

The Federal Employees Group Life Insurance Open Enrollment period began April 24 and will run through June 30. All eligible employees may enroll or change their current enrollment without providing results of a physical exam.

This year the Office of Personnel Management reduced FEGLI rates for enrollees in most age groups for optional insurance. In addition there are several new, enhanced features now available to employees including higher family coverage.

The effective date for new enrollments and changes will be effective April 23, 2000.

The OPM has a FEGLI '99 website, which provides on-line FEGLI information, forms, and publications.

The site also includes a FEGLI on-line calculator for employees to determine the face value of their life insurance as well as calculating the cost of coverage. Employees may visit this website at www.opm.gov/insure/life/fegli99/index.htm.

The FEGLI booklets and brochures are being distributed to all eligible employees. Employees who want to enroll or change enrollment must complete Form RI76-27 which is available in the Civilian Personnel Advisory Center, Building 614, Room 134.

For further information, call 242-5714.

Legal assistance office offers tips for travelers

With summer vacations and travel on the horizon, it can't hurt to bone up on important legal hassle-prevention tips. This article is intended to aid with your pre-trip plans and better equip you to deal with annoying and often financial inconveniences common to traveling.

Airlines and Lost or Damaged Baggage

Many of us have experienced delayed baggage and feared the nightmare a few of us have lived – the loss or damage of our baggage. Under U.S. Department of Transportation regulations, liability for the loss, damage, or delay of domestic baggage is limited to $1,250.

When multiple airlines are involved, the airline that carried the passenger to the ultimate destination is responsible for payment. Unfortunately for travelers, the airlines legitimately exclude coverage for many items. So many common items such as medicine, cash, jewelry, artwork, cameras, and recorders are excluded that the unsuspecting consumer, writing to the carrier and listing all these items, is sometimes left with only reimbursement for the suitcase itself. Solution: pack all valuable items in one bag and keep that bag with you.

International law makes a carrier pay for baggage or goods if their loss or damage took place during international transportation. However, in stark contrast to the U.S. domestic flight rules, liability is limited to $9.07 per pound. The traveler avoids that limit only by making a special declaration of excess value and paying a fee when the baggage is handed over to the carrier. Carry-on luggage liability is limited to merely $52.75 per passenger, regardless of the number of carry-on pieces.

Airlines and Overbooking

Airlines can overbook and "get away with it." Public disclosure by airlines of their deliberate overbooking and boarding procedures has lessened their exposure to these claims. Those procedures are printed on the backs of ticket folders or on signs at ticket counters. First the airline asks for volunteers to relinquish seats in exchange for a payment of the airline's choosing. If there are not enough volunteers, other passengers may be denied boarding involuntarily.

In that case, The Department of Transportation has fixed the amount of reimbursement if the passenger strictly complies with the carrier's reservation confirmation and check-in requirements, and allows the passenger to sue the carrier if the passenger elects to decline the payments. The method of computing passenger payments can be found at Volume 14, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 250.5, available at the Legal Assistance Office or online at www.access.gpo/nara/cfr/index.html. The maximum amount is $400.

Hotels and Overbooking

Hotels, resorts, inns, and other lodging establishments can deliberately overbook. No law actually permits hotels to overbook, yet guests lack the federal protections that govern airline overbooking. Inconvenienced guests must resort to suing the hotels in state courts on the basis of misrepresentation or fraud. Still, you can ensure the hotel doesn't renege by mailing, e-mailing, or faxing a short, binding agreement to the general manager, confirming what you've been told.

Travel Agents

In California travel agents have a legal obligation to use reasonable care. However, they are not insurers of things that go wrong. Mistakes by tour operators, resorts or hotels (such as overbooking even though the travel agent received a confirmed reservation) do not subject the agent to liability. Case law merely requires the agent to warn consumers of dangers of which it is aware or should be aware.

Travel in a Privately Owned Vehicle

If you are planning to make your trip by automobile, you should be aware that some mechanics and gas station employees are waiting for the unwary traveler. The best insurance against these unscrupulous operators is to have your car thoroughly checked before you go. If you are in unfamiliar territory, it's best to do the following:

- ❑ Stay with your car and watch what the mechanic is doing to prevent blatant abuses.
- ❑ Get a written estimate.
- ❑ If you are in a town with more than one repair shop and your car is not disabled, consider a second or third opinion.
- ❑ Ask for your old parts if new ones are being installed.
- ❑ If possible, pay with a credit card to preserve your right to withhold payment and dispute the transaction with the garage – a handy legal tool should your car break down the next day due to defective labor or parts.
- ❑ Carry your credit card to the machine and watch the attendant write up the charge so an unscrupulous attendant can't write up phony charges such as a second card receipt.

Travel smart. Take this article with you on your journeys because common sense and knowing the law could save you money.

Senior Defense Department leaders urge panel to allow future base realignments, closures

By Jim Garamone

American Forces Press Service

WASHINGTON — Senior Department of Defense civilian and military leaders have sent letters to the Senate Armed Services Committee urging the panel to allow two more rounds of base realignments and closures.

The letters, sent May 11 to Sen. John Warner, committee chairman, make the case for two more BRAC rounds as the committee considers the fiscal 2000 DOD authorization bill.

In his letter, Defense Secretary William S. Cohen said DOD continues to look for savings elsewhere. "Nevertheless, no other reform even comes close to offering the potential savings afforded by even a single round of BRAC," he wrote. "There is simply no substitute for base closure and realignment."

Army Secretary Louis Caldera, Navy Secretary Richard Danzig and Acting Air Force Secretary F. Whitten Peters, in a joint letter, said the BRAC process is "the only tool we have available to divest ourselves of unneeded infrastructure, consolidate missions and free funds to improve priority programs on the scale that we know is required."

Two new rounds of BRAC will rid DOD of $20 billion in excess infrastructure and ultimately generate $3.6 billion in savings annually, Cohen wrote. "In exchange for property that we neither want nor need, we can direct $3.6 billion on an annual basis into weapons that give our troops a life-saving edge, into training that keeps our forces the finest in the world and into the quality of life of military families," he said.

The Joint Chiefs of Staff also urged the Senate panel to authorize two new rounds of BRAC. The "24-star letter" — signed by Chairman Army Gen. Henry Shelton, Vice Chairman Air Force Gen. Joseph Ralston, and service chiefs Army Gen. Dennis Reimer, Marine Corps Gen. Charles Krulak, Navy Adm. Jay Johnston and Air Force Gen. Michael Ryan — noted that studies show DOD has "23 percent excess capacity."

"The importance of BRAC goes beyond savings," the Joint Chiefs' letter said. "BRAC is the single most effective tool available to the services to realign their infrastructure to meet the needs of changing organizations and to respond to new ways of doing business. No other initiative can substitute for BRAC in terms of ability to reduce and reshape infrastructure. Simply stated, our military judgment is that further base closures are absolutely necessary."

During testimony before the Defense Subcommittee of the Senate Appropriations Committee, Cohen said BRAC is a "future readiness" need. "It is not for me or for the chairman or for our military at this moment that we need to adopt these two more rounds and to pursue them," he told the panel May 11. "It is for those who are coming behind us and who will need the money to put into pay and compensation and payable reform and redux [retirement] and more procurement. Unless we are able to start saving funds that we know we need to save, then we are going to put them in some jeopardy," Cohen said.

Types of clinical trials expand for TRICARE-eligible cancer patients

By Douglas Gillert

American Forces Press Service

WASHINGTON — The Defense Department and National Cancer Institute will soon expand the numbers and types of clinical trials open to TRICARE beneficiaries.

TRICARE-eligible cancer patients since 1996 have been eligible to take part in experimental treatment programs sponsored by the NCI at more than 2,000 locations. This summer, that agreement will expand to include cancer prevention clinical trials.

The DOD/NCI Cancer Treatment Clinical Trials Demonstration allows TRICARE beneficiaries to participate in the latest cancer treatment studies as part of their standard health care benefits. The current agreement gives them access to the cancer institute's Phase II and Phase III cancer treatment trials. Phase II trials provide preliminary information about how well a new drug or therapy works on a particular type of cancer. Phase III trials compare promising new treatments against standard treatments.

As it was first in coverage of cancer treatment clinical trials, DOD will become the first payer in the nation to cover the costs of cancer prevention clinical trials. The plan covers costs for screening tests to determine clinical eligibility and all cancer treatments covered under the demonstration project.

Those interested in joining a preventive or treatment trial should consult with their doctors, because research needs are usually specific and prone to change. Patients, family members and others can access general information on cancer and clinical trials or obtain an authorization to enroll patients in a trial by calling 1-800-779-3060. Usual TRICARE rules, cost shares and deductibles apply, and eligible patients may receive care outside the TRICARE network.

TRICARE posts a great deal of information about the cancer trials on the Military Health System Web site www.tricare.osd.mil/cancertrials/. Information also is available by calling the cancer trials demonstration coordinator toll-free at (800) 779-3060 and the Cancer Information Service at (800) 4-CANCER (422-6237).

Red Cross establishes new toll-free number

The American Red Cross serving the Presidio of Monterey announced that a new toll-free number has been established for active duty military members needing emergency communication services. The toll-free number is being phased-in among 26 western states.

Beginning June 7, active military members assigned to the Presidio and their family members residing in the same household should call 1-877-272-7337 to reach the new Armed Forces Emergency Service Center in Ft. Sill, Oklahoma. Red Cross Armed Forces Emergency Services, with the help of its military partners, is responsible for delivering emergency messages to military members around the world.

The new Armed Forces Emergency Service Centers' use of the newest and most advanced communication technology available and the use of the toll-free number will give active duty military members enhanced access and more timely Red Cross emergency assistance than ever before. Now all military members and their families who are assigned to domestic installations will have around-the-clock access to Red Cross emergency services nationwide through a toll-free call.

Want to place an ad?

Explanation of classified ad policy

The following information is provided to explain and clarify policy for individuals who would like to publish classified ads in POM-Mart.

Military members, retirees and Department of Defense civilian employees with valid identification cards are authorized to place classified ads in the Community News.

To place an ad in the Community News, complete the form on the back page of the Community News and deliver it to the Public Affairs Office, Building 614, Room 142, Presidio of Monterey, 93944. Ads may also be sent via e-mail to the editor at wright@pom-emh1.army.mil. Individuals should be sure to include all information requested on the form, including the category of the ad.

Daytime work telephone numbers are for use by Community News staff only; they will not be listed in ads. Individuals may place up to three ads in different categories per issue. Each ad should not exceed 35 words; itemized property for sale should be valued at least $10.

The Community News staff will make every effort to publish ads accurately, but we reserve the right to edit ads to meet readability, format and space requirements. Report typographical errors to the editor, and they will be corrected in the next available issue.

Acceptable classified ads include items in the categories of Autos; Motorcycles; Trucks, Vans, Sport, RVs; Wanted; Sports Equipment; Entertainment, Music Items; Computers and Accessories; Lost and Found; Miscellaneous; Pets or Household Items. Items must be for one-time sale or for free – not for a profit-sharing venture of multiple items. The Community News does not take responsibility for items advertised.

Classified ads for businesses, rentals, free information, help for hire or tutoring, or illegal items are not authorized. Each ad will be published in three consecutive issues unless it is renewed or cancelled.

The date the ad was first published is printed in parentheses following each ad. For example, ads dated (05-07) will continue to run through the June 4 issue. Classified ads may be renewed or cancelled by phone; however, new ads, additions or major changes to ads must be done in writing before the Wednesday deadline for the next issue. Deadlines are generally a week and a half prior to the next publication. When calling in reference to an ad, be sure to identify the category, first few words of the ad, phone number as printed and the date following the ad.

Deadline for the June 4 issue is Wednesday; deadline for the June 18 issue is June 9.

Please refer questions concerning this policy to the editor of the Community News at the Public Affairs Office, at 242-5104 or 242-6426.
